From employment and money, to family, safety and well-being – these forums are just one way of sharing your views on these topics and more.

These consultations will contribute to the update of South Australia's Strategic Plan. They will also help the Premier's Council for Women continue to provide independent advice on issues of importance to women and advocate for improved opportunities, well-being and services for all women in South Australia.

If you cannot attend the forums, email or write to us to share your views.

“ Since December 2002, the Premier's Council for Women has provided leadership to ensure that the interests and needs of women are at the forefront of the South Australian Government's policies and strategies.

The Council provides advice to the Premier and the Minister for the Status of Women on a range of issues including health, safety, work, anti-discrimination legislation and the representation of women in leadership positions. The Council is currently comprised of sixteen women leaders from various fields, such as mining, education, industrial relations, health and the community sector.”
